

AccuConference Software Developer Internship 2011

AccuConference is a worldwide audio, web, and video conferencing provider. We offer user friendly products that help corporations, governments, and individuals collaborate on any given project. Our communications software offers in-depth interfaces that are accessible from anywhere. Our communications tools are reliable and easy to use.

We are currently recruiting for Interns.

You will be working in an entrepreneurial environment. Your ideas will be used to produce and grow the business.

We create products on different platforms and with the latest gadgets and technology. This is a great opportunity to work on real production software and to work side-by-side with a development team.

Interns will be part of building software in the telecom industry. The AccuConference internship provides opportunities to work on projects affecting real customers.
